

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for recombinant production, recovery and purification of endostatin protein. This method may be employed for large scale recovery and purification of recombinantly-produced endostatin protein.